LEGION ANNUAL PICNIC THE DEATH OF

There was a record attendance at the Annual Legion Picnic held at St. George's Island Park on Sunday last. Over two hundred legions and their families gathered to make the most of an enjoyable outing. The weather was perfect. The ice cream, in abundance, never tasted better, the races were as keenly contested as ever, and the ball game, a "hang over" for four seasons gave lots of merriment to both players and spectators.

To add to the pleasures of the day there was the Strathmore and Glenhead Band. The crowd around the bandstand as well as the many in the park were delighted to have band music. With the many soldiers present it gave the park quite a military setting, the band just fitting the place to perfection. Their many well played selections were greatly appreciated.

There were lots of good things to eat. We were more than pleased to

RED CROSS GARDEN PARTY WAS VERY SUCCESSFUL

The Red Cross Garden Party given last Saturday on the lawn of Messrs. G. H. Patrick and D. McMurtry was a very gratifying success. All went off to the king's taste, save the weather, but despite occasional rain drops—too chilly to bring the crowds in large numbers, and with typical true blue courage stayed on to patronize liberally the different booths set up to win the cash from the pockets of hopeful players.

The lawn very attractive in their natural state were specially adorned with flags, Chinese lanterns, powerful flood lights and streamers of colored lights which at night produced a very picturesque setting.

G. H. Patrick, President of the Red Cross Society was ably assisted by all members, and several who helped for the day.

Bridge was played at fourteen tables in the Memorial Hall. This was arranged by Mrs. Ridley and Mrs. Thos. E. Wright.

Home Cooking Booth was supervised by Mrs. A. P. Gray and Mrs. Garrett. Ice cream and soft drinks, Miss Violet Hyde and Dorothy Bugden.

The very gratifying sum of over $200 was cleared for the Treasury.

have our men in service, Staff Sergeant. Dr. E. E. Zerkle, Corp. George Laid, Jack Bert Freeman, Ronnie Hinchliffe and Sonny Gray sit down with all at the long well fitted tables. It was a lovely occasion for all.

Mr. Zerkle was born in West Virginia, U. S. and spent his childhood there. He moved to Chicago, Illinois when a young man where he was Assistant Manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

He was married to Louanna Fowler in December 1902 and in 1909 he came to Strathmore with his family where they have made their home. Mr. Zerkle started a coal business here and was grain buyer for the Robin Hood Elevator. When the Imperial Oil Co. opened their wholesale home here he abandoned that for them until the time of his illness about 19 years ago.

He was a very active worker in all community affairs and took a great interest in the United Church. He was Superintendent of the Sunday School for years and served on the Church Council. He also gave his services to the School Board and Town Council for some time.

Although Mr. Zerkle has been in failing health for so long, the end came very suddenly and was a shock to his family and those looking after him. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife Louanna and one daughter Esther, and two brothers in the United States.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday, August 7th at 2 p.m. at the United Church. Rev. S. R. Hunt officiated. The pall bearers were Messrs. Thos. E. Wright, J. D. North, H. Scher, S. F. Carriott, A. L. Black and J. H. Miner.

Arrangements were in charge of the Chase Funeral Home with Melville & Holroyd.

THE WEEK IN EDMONTON

(By Das E. Campbell)

Production of creamery butter in Alberta for the month of June was 4,972,281 pounds or 2 1/2 per cent less than June last year, according to a report from the provincial department of agriculture. At the same time stocks of creamery butter in Alberta showed an increase of 3 1/2 per cent over last year. There were 2,620,776 pounds on hand at the end of June.

Purchased recently by the province, two new stabilization machines have proven their worth in road construction, according to Hon. W. A. Fallick, minister of public works. The two are the only machines of their type in Canada and are described as the last word in surfacing roads. One machine is now working near Ft. Veaseyville and the other south of Edmonton.

Representations to the Ottawa government to ship some of British livestock to Canada have been made by the province. It is expected that the Canadian government will be able to ship some of the livestock to Canada.

Alberta's oilfields are as safe an investment as any area on the North American continent, said Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, in commenting upon the attitude of the Securities and Exchange Commission of the United States. A report recently approved by the commission stated that land owners' royalties are as safe in Canada as anywhere else in the world. Mr. Tanner said this report would help confirm much ill advised speculation regarding the possibility of the Canadian government expropriating all natural resources.

THE NAZI BLUFF

within the minds and the hearts of the civilian population just that type of unreasoning fear to which the lady at every quoted gave such apprehensive expression.

All those nations whom the Nazis have subjugated were beaten long before the Nazi military machine invaded their countries. They were beaten because of the defeatism shown amongst them by this Advance Guard—the "Fifth Column." The will to resist, which is the one quality the Nazis fear most has been destroyed. The civilian population and their leaders had been numbed with terror by the widespread fiction of the "invincibility of the German sword."

What an abnormal fate this legend of the writer has set forth in the file. He shows why it is absolutely necessary for the Nazis to perpetuate the bluff.

The writer also fixes the birth and growth of the Nazi conviction that the surest way to destroy a nation's will to resist is first to destroy the moral of the civilian population. When that is done the defeat of the soldiers follows as certain as night follows the day.

(The Editor)

For an intelligent understanding of what lies behind the war-making methods of Germany's present leaders, one ought to have a grasp of the Teutonic psychology. Particularly should one understand that division of it which is comprised in the old enigmatic notion of the "invincibility of the German sword."

Let it be firmly implanted into the mind that this war has two purposes. It is first a war of revenge; the Prus-

In this black hour,
When skies are dark with hate,
And sweet green earth lies prostrate,
Charred and sear;
When the craved savage smashes at the gate,
Reveling all we hold most dear;
In this so cruel and portentous hour,
In spite of fevered outward sign
Of ruin and of holocaust,
All is not lost,
Believe!
That life itself is helpless to devour
Or undermine
The treasure of the spirit.
Believe!
Be brave—
That we survive
Though all the world we loved be

Measurement Table For Granaries

The problem of providing storage for this year's crop raises the question of the space required for any given quantity of threshed grain.

A bushel of threshed grain occupies 35 cubic feet. To determine the amount of grain which a building will hold, find the length, width and height in feet. Next multiply the length by the width by the height, which gives the number of cubic feet. Multiply this figure by decimal eight (8) and the result is the number of bushels which may be placed in the bin. Thus a bin 12 feet long, 10 feet wide and 8 feet high is 12 X 10 X 8 = 960 cubic feet. 960 cubic feet will hold 960 X 8 bushels or 768 bushels.

Grains have never forgotten the Allied for the humiliating defeat of 1918. For 20 years they have dreamed of the day when they would wipe out that stigma, although it has never been their policy to admit defeat or their armies.

The other purpose is world domination by the Nazis, a realization of the "Weltanschauung." However, first things being first, let us consider the Prussian aspect of things. We shall then see how logically and inevitably they lead to the present day "Fifth Column." And we shall also see why they lead to it.

The pride and the vanity of the Prussian military caste have always recoiled from confessing that they, a race of supermen born and bred to war, had actually been defeated in battle—defeated by the very enemies whom they had long affected to despise as decadent. Their consuming egoism drove them to resist stubbornly any acknowledgment of the plain facts of 1918.

Naturally they cast around for a "scapegoat." Any scapegoat would have served at the time, provided that it was not at all which disparaged their military qualities or exposed them for what they actually were: a caste of swarming bullies who had been well liked at their own game.

However, they were not long in finding one; and to follow the two courses of the Prussian mind in search of an "alibi" we are obliged to recall briefly some of the events of 1918.

1918 in Retrospect—

When the spring and summer offensives of Ludendorff became bogged in July of that year, and Haig's counter-strokes reversed the story of colonial German victories, the reaction of the civil population of Germany was pitiful. They had long been buoyed up with promises of a triumphant peace. The Prussian ideal was going to grind the faces of the English and the French into the "under" and "Deutschland would reign 'uber alles'" on the top of the world's middle.

The first counter-offensive of the Allies in mid July could be cannot flag to the Prussian military leaders; but the others, beginning with the Canadian-Australian, sent of the enemy at Amiens early in August, could not. August 8th was "the black day of the German Army," according to Ludendorff. And its effect upon the long suffering and famine ridden masses was tremendous. The German for began to disintegrate. Defeat followed defeat. It began to penetrate to the minds of the German civilians that what was now confronting them was not a resounding, extract from a loved defeat. It began to penetrate to the minds of the German civilians that what was now confronting them was not a resounding, extract from a loved defeat. It began to penetrate to the minds of the German civilians that what was now confronting them was not a resounding, extract from a loved defeat.

Hope had already given way to despair. Gradually the despair gave way to panic and to bitter anger against Germany's generals, the aristocracy, the whole Prussian military caste, and the politicians. Soldiers returning home on leave from the front told of the catastrophes suffered in

Travelogue by Mrs. Wm. Risdon

As we neared the island we saw several boats. Their noses were out of the water and the crew were flying on behind. Behind one was a man on a skid. He travelled over the water at a terrific rate and one half expected to see him take a nose dive but nothing like that happened.

When we arrived at the island we took a trip in a small steamboat with glass bottom to see the vegetation on the bottom of the ocean. One place we looked down seventy five feet through the crystal clear water and saw the seaweed growing up from the bottom and it looked like a forest under the water. There were beautiful gold, blue and red stripes fish swimming about and once when the little fish darted away I looked to see what might be and a large fish as long as your arm swam thru.

We left the island in the late afternoon and went on to San Gabriel. California there are old missions built by the Spanish Fathers during the eighteenth century. The first one was built in San Diego. There is a beautiful mission in the town of San Gabriel being Sunday, my friend and I attended. It is a very beautiful old church inside and we heard some lovely music. After we saw the mission's place and we saw the mother grapevine planted one hundred and seventy six years ago. It was a very large vine and produced a great many grapes.

I took a bus from Los Angeles to San Francisco along the coast route and went thru the "Golden Gate" Valley where 55 per cent of the lettuce comes and I had a lovely trip to Vancouver in America is grown. The Salween River is the longest subterranean river in the world. The bus passes over it five times in a hundred miles.

The Ferry Steam Company have acres of flowers here also, where they produce their seed.

When I returned to my brothers we, my two sisters, sister-in-law and niece and I had a lovely trip to Youme National Park. The scenery there was grand, especially the many waterfalls. We crossed the bridge of the park a different way and en route we saw Brete Hart's cabin where he saw "Tennessee Partner" in the book of "Roaring Camp." Back of the cabin a million dollars has been taken out in gold by placer mining. A few miles further down a river has been dredged and seven millions taken out. Going on up the coast I saw the giant redwoods. They are magnificent, I think the that route is much finer than the inland route.

On leaving Spokane I was fortunate in getting a sightseeing bus home. We stopped at 5:20 in the afternoon and the next morning at 4:20 we entered Vermilion Pass into Kootenai National Park of British Columbia. We arrived at the town of Salmon Springs just before five. We stopped there and had a delicious breakfast and rested before a sparkling walk to the falls. We saw six or seven of them and we continued our journey, stopping at all places of interest. When a person the field. They thus fanned the flames of sudden anger and discontent at home. Returning to their suits at the front, they bore with them stories of privation, of famine and suffering. In this way they also infected the fighting troops and impaired their morale. The vicious circle was completed.

The disturbances and revolution which coincided with the signing of the Armistice were the next natural development. Chaos descended upon Germany.

The "Alibi"

In their search for an explanation which would console the losing of the war, without in the least compromising themselves, the Prussian military caste simply blacked out the memory of the defeats administered on them in battle. They thrust the whole blame on the civilian population at home. The German Army, they should not have been vanquished. The soldiers had been betrayed by the collapse of the "home front."

For twenty years this apologetics has been thundered and drummed into the Teutonic mind. In the calm of the present day, it is not so easy to see the wreckage of their defeated dreams. The chorus became so familiar that we simply dismissed it.

"The German Army of 1918 was invincible."

"The army was betrayed and the war was lost by the people behind the lines."

"The army was the victim of treason crossed our path, we stopped to watch him, and when we saw two female moose we stopped and got out and watched them for while. When the moose crossed the river, the first one had difficulty in following her as the current swept her off her hind feet, but she finally made it.

We entered Banff National Park and eventually reached Banff where we stopped for ten minutes. Arrived at Calgary at one o'clock and it seemed good to be home again after a very delightful trip.

UNITED GRAIN GROWERS PROTEST AMENDMENT TO WHEAT BOARD ACT

Opposition to a proposed provision of the Act amending the Wheat Board Act has been voiced on behalf of the United Grain Growers Ltd.

Friday evening President R. S. Law made public a telegram, despatched to the Federal Government protesting the change. Space forbids full text of telegram.

The change proposed at Ottawa would mean a reduction of 2.5 cents per bushel on wheat delivered to the Wheat Board, at Strathmore.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE—THE STANDARD—YOUR HOME-TOWN PAPER

cherous politicians, of self seekers and Jewish financiers."

The Prussians were especially bitter against those creatures of that pseudo-democratic system which Imperial Germany had affected, the men whom hierarchies of the Armistice revolution—until utterly broken from start to finish—had wanted to office.

A Tremendous Lesson—

We dismissed those things lightly as the years passed. But the Germans didn't. The more they analyzed them, the more the Germans beheld a few grains of truth wrapped up in the Prussian position. The Germans were more than willing to forget that their magnificent army had actually been badly defeated; but they pondered deeply the other element—the effect of the collapse of the home front on the spirit of the army, and the extent to which that breakdown of civilian morale had contributed to the defeat.

The endless intonation of that chorus had its inevitable result. A new generation of Germans grew up tutored in the legend of Teutonic invincibility.

Another result of this endless chorus manifested itself later. It was when the Nazis recomposed of the Prussian caste began perfecting their plans for world domination they made a profound study of the cause and effect of the collapse of the home front in 1918. From that study there emerged a tremendous lesson; and that lesson can be reduced to the following simple terms:

"If the cracking of civilian morale behind the fighting men could lead, as it did in 1918, to the destruction of the German soldiers' will to resist, then the same conditions operating upon an enemy in wartime will produce the same results."

In other words, the Nazis rediscovered the age-old truth that what's sauce for the Goose is sauce for the gander.

WHAT IS GOLF?

Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a man to enjoy it. It has a physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress for it in a $200,000 clubhouse. Golf is what better carrying, ditch digging and carpet beating would be, if these three tasks had to be performed on the same afternoon of a hot day, in short pants and colored socks by gentlemen who require a different implement for every mood. Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decide to take it up, and the hardest looking, after you've been at it for a period of ten or twelve years. It is probably the only known game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover it was too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass, with little white balls, and as many clubs as the player can afford. The little white balls cost from 75 cents to $25.00 and it is possible to support a family of ten people, all adults, for five months, on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single after-noon.

A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary, as one only put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a tin cup in the centre of a "green." A "green" is a small patch of grass, costing about $1128 in blades, and usually located between a brook, and a couple of apple trees, or a lot of "unfertilized excavation" as one only put in to make the game harder.

ten cups, in the fewest number of strokes, and the greatest number of words.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled by about $200.00 worth of curious looking instruments, especially designed to provoke the owner. Each implement has a specific purpose, and ultimately some golfers, get to know what purpose. They are the exceptions. After each hole has been completed, the golfer counts his strokes. He subtracts six, and says, "Made that in five. That's one over par. Shall we play for fifty cents to see who's the loser, Ed?" After the final or eighteenth hole, the golfer adds up his score, and stops when he has reached eighty-seven. He then has a swim, a pint of gin, sings "Sweet Adeline" with six or eight other lads, and calls it the end of a perfect day. (Author Unknown)

The present chartered banks offered no opposition whatever to the bill, making not a single complaint against it.

A few days earlier, Hon. C. D. Howe, as minister of munitions and supply had told the commonsense of a crisis for the Alberta through its Turner Valley oil industry.

"It said that he had been assured previously by the Alberta government that a production of 25,000 barrels a day could always be counted upon in the Valley. His department, through the federal oil controller, arranged new markets for Turner Valley oil and called for a production of 20,000 barrels a day."

"It was then discovered that the well could produce only 27,000 barrels a day; the minister in charge in the provincial government simply told us that he was very sorry but he had been misinformed," Mr. Howe said.

"The result has been that having laid on the demand to the higher figure, it is not now possible to supply all customers 100 per cent. I understand that the provincial government, which has charge of production, is delivering from that field the maximum amount possible, which today amounts to between 20,000 and 27,000 barrels per day."

"Thus the oil and gasoline supply has been disrupted in Western Canada, and Alberta's oil industry placed in a critical position. The reason, as explained, is that development of new wells has not kept pace with requirements."

It has become known that to maintain Turner Valley production, new wells must be brought into production frequently. But capital has been frightened away; excessive taxes, threats of confiscation or expropriation, and the whole menace of government interference with private enterprise in Alberta during the past three years have combined to discourage new capital from investing in Alberta industry.

Now Alberta is reaping the result which was predicted when the provincial government began to meddle with and "supervise" the petroleum industry and pile the taxes and expenses upon it; the government is in peril of finding that it has at least missed the goose that laid the golden egg.

During the past week independent members of the legislature joined with the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce in protesting the recent decision of the dominion government in basing the 70 cent pegged price for wheat at Fort William rather than Vancouver. It was stated afterwards that the members had asked for sympathetic consideration of the claims of Alberta farmers for a Vancouver instead of Fort William basis for the pegged grain price.

Here's How THEY get on the Inside of the Outside 69% Market!

Alert, successful advertisers and merchandisers know that 69% of Canada's retail sales are made over the counters in the smaller communities, outside the metropolitan centres.

And they know, too, by experience, that the most direct, most economical, most effective means of reaching the 7,750,000 consumers in that great major market—and of securing the co-operation of the dealers who serve them—is by advertising in the Weekly Newspapers.

That's how they get on the inside of that 69% outside market. And here's why they use the Weekly Newspapers to get there.

It's because they know that the Weekly and only the Weekly caters to and serves the intimate, personal, "home-town" interests of its readers; that it is their paper in a sense that no other or outside publication can hope to be; that it is their guide in making 69% of the nation's total retail purchases.

When planning your 1940 advertising budget, be sure to have all the facts about the dominant position of the Weekly Newspapers in Canada's 69% outside major market. Write now, for precise information.
